AMUR SITUATION DISCUSSED

Japanese Ministers Hold Conference

INCIDENT TO BE LOCALISED

Tokyo, July 1.
The Premier, Prince Konoe, the Foreign, Navy and War Ministers had a conference at 11 a.m. this morning. It is understood they primarily discussed the Amur situation. In view of reports that the Soviet captured a Japanese-Manchukuo gunboat on June 29 for which yesterday's clash was in the nature of a reprisal it is felt the affair will be localised. Meanwhile from Hanking the situation is described as very tense. The authorities express bitter disappointment and high indignation at the Soviet's "deceit for illegally firing on the Japanese-Manchukuo frontier guards." It is opined that the Manchukuo Government will be obliged to "take a firm and fair attitude to secure free navigation on the frontier rivers against any obstacles."—Reuter.

INCIDENT LOCALISED

Tokyo, July 1.
It is learned that at this morning's conference the Premier, Foreign, Naval and War Ministers decided to localise the Amur River incident and pursue an attitude of watchful and waiting, trusting the Soviet Government will withdraw its troops from the two islets in question in accordance with the assurance stated to have been given by Litvinoff twenty-four hours before the clash.

Newspapers report that officials of the Foreign Office and War Office and General Staffs of the Army and Admiralty remained at their offices late last night but no emergency meeting of the cabinet was called to-day which fact itself is regarded as showing there has been no further important developments in the Amur situation.—Reuter.

JULY BANK HOLIDAY

Saved By The Old Bike

The July Bank Holiday yesterday provided a very welcome respite from work for the community—that is, except those who work in the banks and that very unfortunate, and often misunderstood, section of the community, the newspaper fraternity. The bank people had to do the half-yearly balancing of accounts and newspaper "wallas"—well, they just had to get out the news, that's all.

Despite the fact—and it is a well-known fact—that all newspapermen are "overworked and underpaid" we are (let it be whispered in modesty) a good bunch of fellows and we never grudge our fellow-beings any leisure, so even though we could not go swimming, play tennis or play mah-jongg while listening in to the radio, we just grinned and bore it.

All this of course, happened in the early morning, but as the day wore on and the sun became hotter and hotter it did not seem so funny after all.

LEPER RELIEF

Canton, July 1.
Leprosy being one of the most dreaded diseases of mankind, and South China being the home of many who are afflicted with this terrible disease, it is reported that the Central Leper Relief Society of China, with a view to alleviating the sufferings and fate of the unfortunates, has decided to establish a branch of the Society in Canton.

Having obtained the approval of the Nanking Central Government, the authorities of the Central Leper Relief Society of China are already in telegraphic communication with the Central Provincial Authorities.—Chinese Evening Press.

FLYING PROFESSOR VISITS HONG KONG

IMPRESSIONS ABOARD THE ILL-FATED HINDENBURG

There is an intensely interesting visitor in Hong Kong in the person of Prof. F. R. Harris, a well-known American educationalist. He hopes to be the first man to complete a round-the-world trip by air, Prof. Harris having arrived here by the Hong Kong Clipper.

Prof. Harris is superintendent of schools at Greenfield, near Columbus, Ohio, U.S.A., and he is a very popular citizen, especially amongst the teaching fraternity. A proficient lecturer, he has a very wide practice among some of the leading universities in the United States.

In an exclusive interview with a "Daily Press" representative last night, Prof. Harris said:—
"It was my privilege to make a round-trip on the 'Hindenburg' last summer. So great was my confidence in the safety and security of that giant dirigible that I had again booked passage on it for next August. I had planned to embark upon the Hindenburg at Frankfurt-on-Main on Friday August 13, on the last lap of a journey round the world by air. I will now be compelled to make that portion of my trip by boat."

"I have reason to believe that I will be the first pay-as-you-go passenger to complete the circuit of the globe by commercial air-line. I base my claim, of course, on the fact that I crossed the Atlantic by air last summer and am now completing the circuit. At some point in the English Channel where the plane of Imperial Airways on which I travel crosses the route taken by the Hindenburg last summer, I will complete my trip around the world by air.

NO RECORD IN VIEW

"I am not interested in establishing any record. I merely want to see as much of this old planet of ours as can be seen within the limits of a three month's vacation. Air travel offers greater opportunities along that line than any other means of transportation. Therefore, I am travelling by air.

"A trip across the Atlantic by air—last summer at least—was just about as casual as a weekend trip into the country. On the day that the Hindenburg was to sail or to soar or whatever may be the technical term for the departure of a great air-liner, I grabbed my bags, caught a bus from New York to Newark and taxied from that point over to Lakehurst by airplane.

BASKET-BALL GIANTS

OLYMPIC TEAM TO PLAY HERE

Clash With Colony Champions

A treat is promised local basketball enthusiasts to-night when the All-Filipino Basketball team, champions of the Philippine Islands, are scheduled to meet the local Chinese Y.M.C.A. aggregation, Colony champions, in an exhibition game at the Chinese "Y," commencing at 7 p.m. sharp.

The Filipino team are arriving here this morning by the s.s. President McKinlay and though they will be leaving again in the evening, Mr. L. R. Hildebrand, the well-known local Filipino sportsman, has made arrangements for the game to be played.

The Filipino champions are on their way to Shanghai where they are scheduled to play a series of exhibition matches and it is possible that they will be seen in action here again on their return journey home.

It has not been possible to get the line-up of the Filipino squad but we learn that they are mainly composed of those players who represented the Islands in the recent World Olympic games at Berlin.

GERMAN AIRSHIP POLICY

SUPPLY OF HELIUM FROM U.S.A.

Dr. Eckener's Views

Dr. Eckener was on board the Europa, which called at Southampton on June 18, and although he did not land he disclosed, while the ship was in port, important details of future German policy for airships. Those Germans, he said, whose life and interests were devoted to airship had suffered a great loss in skilled men in the recent disaster, but cheered by the promise of helium from the U.S.A. they were determined to have the LZ130 in commission early in 1938.

This ship was, like its sister vessel the Hindenburg, planned for helium, and therefore any alterations which may have to be made will be minor technical ones. The most important consideration will be the question of the extra bay. As now planned, the LZ130, if filled with helium, would be able to carry only 55-60 passengers, compared with the 75 of the Hindenburg. If the extra bay is inserted her capacity will be as great as that of the last airship.

NEW LINERS FOR ROUTES IN THE PACIFIC

TWO HIGH-SPEED VESSELS

MOVE TO MEET FOREIGN COMPETITION

Immediate and decisive action is now likely to be taken to safeguard the British "all-red" shipping routes in the Pacific, endangered by foreign subsidised competition.

Subject to the necessary Parliamentary approval, two large, high-speed liners will be built for the Canadian-Australasian service.

They will be equal, if not superior, in every way to the crack vessels of the American Matson line, which, for some time past, have been skimming the cream of this purely British trade.

Difficulties on the British shipping routes in the Pacific have been the subject of exchanges between the Imperial and Dominion Governments for at least three years. It has remained for the Imperial Conference to reach a provisional decision on ways and means.

If the Parliaments concerned—British, Canadian, Australian, and New Zealand—endorse the proposals of their representatives at the Conference, the foreign challenge will at last be met.

REPLACING OLD SHIPS
The contract for one of the projected liners may go to the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co. of Govan.

The new ships will replace the 13,415-ton, 17-knot Niagara, now in her 23rd year, and the 17,491-ton, 18-knot motorship Arcturion, built in 1924. Both these ships are outclassed by the large, fast and up-to-date Matson liners, Mariposa and Monterey, which are subsidised by the United States Government to the extent of $250,000 a year.

Sir Edward Beatty, president and chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.—of which the Canadian-Australasian Line is a subsidiary—arrived in England last week.

SPEED OF 22 KNOTS
He stated that his visit concerned the future of the Canadian-Australasian Line.

"If the necessary financial guarantees are forthcoming from the Dominions and Imperial authorities," he said, "I shall place an order for two new ships for that service. They will be approximately 22,000 tons each, and have a speed of about 22 knots.

"We want the ships to be in service by the winter of 1939-1940. We have either to build new tonnage or else lose an essential and vital link in Empire trade."

It is understood that the Imperial Conference has also had under review the question of Japanese competition, which has become extremely severe in the Indian and Australian trades.

Winner Of The Newdigate

When the Oxford authorities set "The Man In The Moon" as the subject for the Newdigate Prize this year they seem to have puzzled the many competitors who enter each year in the endeavour to win the coveted honour.

The Newdigate Prize has been awarded annually for more than a hundred years and a study of the winning pieces throws light on the problem of fashion in verse. The wearer of this academic laurel invariably follows the last fashion but one. That is the fault, if fault it be, of the elderly judges, not of the budding poets themselves.

EARLY EXAMPLES

The early examples follow eighteenth century models and make use of nymphs, verdant lawns, enchanted groves, ivy-festooned towers, the owl's complaint, etc., to create a park-like pleasure of words. Scott had more influence than Byron, far more than Wordsworth, with the laurel-seekers of the next two generations.

It is seldom, indeed, that a memorable line is evolved such as Dean Milman's:—

A rose-red city, half as old as time.

It must be admitted that this year the efforts sent in were below the average, that is to say, if we are to judge by excerpts printed in the "Times." We are unable to give the winning verse in full, but presumably the "Times" selected the best possible stanzas, which read like a poetical paraphrase of Eden Philpotts in his palmy days. It pronounced in true Philpottian style it just about scans!

PORTUGUESE COUPLE WED TO-MORROW

Mr. H.M. Britto And Miss E. Ozorio

A wedding of much interest to the Portuguese community will take place to-morrow afternoon at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, between Mr. Henry Maria Britto, of 12, Salisbury Avenue, and Miss Edith Maria Ozorio, of 10, Tung Chung Buildings, Kowloon.

The bridegroom is a popular member of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps which he joined ten years ago. He now holds the rank of Colour Sergeant in the Corps Infantry.

Mr. Britto is also well-known in sporting circles and some years ago took an active part in football until injury prevented him from further participation. However, he turned his interests to hockey where he did well as a goalkeeper playing in that position for Portugal in the local International Hockey Tournament.

UNIFORMS —AND THE GIRL-FRIEND

Sir Ian Hamilton admonished the War Office for failing to understand the importance of uniform to the soldier's girl-friend when he spoke at a British Legion conference at St. Andrews.

Said Sir Ian: "A girl will contribute as much as 3s 6d. towards the combined expenses of a walk out with a young Guardsman in his red coat."

"Since the Highlanders have been put into blue tunics, the most any girl would contribute—unless she is dotty—is sixpence."

"We must get back to our full dress, our feather bonnets and red doublets."

The helium, which comes from Texas and Arizona, will be chiefly shipped by sea, and in that case Dr. Eckener expects that the cost of transport to Frankfurt will be no greater than that of the over-land journey from the south-west to Lakehurst, New Jersey, the base for American airships. The actual negotiations on the sale, it appears, are not yet completed, but the United States authorities are understood to have been satisfied that helium, in such quantities as they are prepared to ship it, could not be used effectively for military purposes.

SABOTAGE RULED OUT

Although reports on the disaster are not yet issued, and the real cause may never be known, it is generally agreed that such a fire could not have broken out had the gas-bags been filled with helium. Dr. Eckener's opinion rules out sabotage. The probability appears to be that the Hindenburg was heavily charged with electricity at the time, and that a discharge of electricity, either from the ship to a cloud or vice versa, caused the outbreak. It is now confirmed that fire broke out on top near the fin and spread forward; the Hindenburg was moored on the port quay and the early flash was seen by an officer of the watch on the mooring-tower.

While work continues on the new airship, the Graf Zeppelin, which was built for hydrogen and not for helium, remains in her shed. She will ultimately be used as a training-ship.

WANCHAI INCIDENT

ARGUMENT OVER COMPENSATION

The difference of only twenty cents concerning compensation led to an argument between a cyclist and a hawk at the junction of Johnston Road and Percival Street in the Wanchai district last night.

It appears that shortly after 9 p.m. the hawk was knocked down by a fellow-countryman riding a bicycle. The hawk's dried meats and other foodstuffs he had for sale were discarded from the stall as a result of the impact.

The hawk asked for one dollar compensation.

The cyclist agreed but when he counted his money he found he had only eighty cents. This he offered but the hawk absolutely refused.

The argument ended abruptly. The cyclist bolted leaving the hawk to collect his foodstuffs and with the bicycle as security!

For fully an hour the crowd remained.

EARL HAIG STATUE

Widow's Criticism Of
"Monstrous" Horse

Countess Haig, widow of Field Marshal Earl Haig, will signify her disapproval of the equestrian statue to her husband, to be erected in Whitehall, by refusing to attend the unveiling ceremony.

The final bronze casting is now nearing completion, and preparatory work on the site in the centre of the roadway opposite Dover House has begun. The unveiling ceremony is expected to take place in about six months' time in the presence of a distinguished gathering.

"I shall not attend the unveiling because I am sure my husband would never have approved the statue," Lady Haig said to a representative of the Daily Telegraph.

"The horse is monstrous. My husband is shown pulling at the horse's head, a thing he never did his life. He was famous as a judge of horseflesh and one of the finest riders in the Army."

"I am sure I am acting as my husband would have wished."

Lady Haig's decision follows years of controversy about the design of the national memorial to Earl Haig. The first design, produced by the architect, Mr. A. F. Hardman, in 1929, was revised on account of criticism of the horse.

THE MEDITERRANEAN OUTLOOK

Concern Regarding The Future Of Spain

(BY SIR HERBERT RUSSELL, in the "United Services Review")

Some time ago Great Britain and Italy exchanged diplomatic "assurances" on the subject of the naval position in the Mediterranean. It was understood that both countries agreed to respect the interests of one another in that sea; in fact, to maintain the status quo as it existed prior to the period of severe tension which arose over the invasion of Abyssinia. This is satisfactory as far as it goes. But there exists a very disturbing factor in the situation and that is the problem of the future of Spain.

The British public is now heartily weary of the war in Spain; weary of the carnage and destruction which all seems so insensate. Partisan sympathy has become rather dulled and the general wish now is that the war should end without too much insistence either way as to how it ends. Actually it is in this question as to how it shall end that the real cause for concern lies. Italy has openly declared that she will never tolerate the existence of a Communist State on her flank, and Germany gives whole-hearted support to this attitude. France declares that she will not tolerate a Fascist State as a next-door neighbour, and Russia naturally endorses this decision. This country has made no open pronouncement upon the subject, but this is certainly not due to any lack of very direct interest.

STRATEGICAL INTEGRITY OF THE ZONE

If Italy really resolved to give effect to her declaration it could only be by supporting the cause of Gen. Franco to such a degree as to render it impossible for the other side to win and then claiming a dominant influence as her reward. This, of course, is a pretty formidable proposition implying a degree of intervention which would hold an ugly threat of war. Yet I do not think we can look ahead to any solution of the present situation in Spain which is free from an ugly threat. In the case of Italy and France it is not merely a question of divided sympathies over the political issues upon which this struggle is being waged. There is a wider aspect to the subject—an aspect which vitally concerns the strategical integrity of the Mediterranean zone. This, too, is where our own concern comes in.

Spain as an anti-Fascist State would be a most startling influence in the naval orientation of Fascist Italy. Spain as a Fascist State, and therefore presumably under the very active influence of Italy, would mean a radical change in the whole Mediterranean outlook of France, and, in no small measure, of ourselves. The results in either case are so obvious and important as to fully justify the respective policies which are already working covertly, and may ultimately work overtly, towards their fulfilment. In particular would they be important to Italy.

POSSIBLE ECONOMIC HARDSHIPS

In the existent situation in the Mediterranean (assuming for the moment that Spain remains normally Spanish) Italy could not hope to wage a successful naval war either against Great Britain or France. I do not need to be reminded of her dominant situation for commanding the Mediterranean trade route, and agree that she could practically render this prohibitory to the commercial shipping of her foe. This would undoubtedly be a very serious economic handicap, but I do not think it need prove actually disastrous.

Both Britain and France have oceanic routes over which they could transport foodstuffs and supplies. True, the use of these would involve a very much longer way around and the closing of certain markets of little importance to the winning of the war. The most serious result to France would be the cutting of her North Africa communications, although in this wide part of the Mediterranean that would probably prove only partially complete.

But by denying the Mediterranean trade route to her enemy even assuming that she completely succeeded in doing so, how would Italy directly benefit? She would seriously inconvenience the enemy, and this might prove one of the factors in helping to influence the development of the war, but in no sense could it prove a decisive one. It would do nothing whatever to remedy the extreme strategical weakness of her own position.

PRACTICABILITY OF BOTTLING- UP

A good deal of attention has been devoted to consideration of what Italy could do against the British in the Mediterranean, but comparatively little heed has been paid to the converse side of the picture. We may reasonably assume the practicability of bottling-up both ends of the Mediterranean to Italian sea power and trade. That would promise a crippling situation from the outset. Malta would have to pay the price of its vulnerability to air attack. But think of the vulnerability of the whole of the Italian seaboard, including the island of Sicily. The strategical defects, or advantages, imposed by geography may indeed be greatly modified by artificial means; the defects in particular can never be overcome.

Suppose that Italy, with her present-day aspirations and intensive industry under severe economic handicaps, were able to establish a definite foothold in Spain; suppose, to simplify the image, that she were in possession of Barcelona, or Cartagena, or Malaga, what a very different outlook would confront her. I do not for one moment seriously suggest the grave prospect of anything of the sort resulting from the present war in Spain. But it is easy to understand why the contemplation of it forms such an Italian preoccupation. Even easier is it to realize the resentment aroused by the other picture—a Communist Spain openly hostile to all the aims and ambitions of the Fascist State. If conflict of interests is one of the most fruitful causes of war, here is a sufficiently full-blown one in all conscience.

How far the exchange of assurances between Italy and Great Britain regarding the situation in the Mediterranean may be taken to imply a disavowal of any intention to try and exploit the Spanish conflict it is impossible for me to say. I am not suggesting any lack of good faith on the part of Italy; any desire whatever to pursue a course fraught with the almost certain ultimate prospect of a rupture. Despite the heroic harangues of the Duce Italy would infinitely prefer to gain what she wants by peaceful methods. The real question is whether she will be prepared to resist what she does not want, namely the emergence of a Communist State? She has certainly taken a very leading part in trying to avert this so far, although there is no reason to doubt that she is now abiding with official loyalty by the terms of the international intervention agreement.

SIGNOR MUSSOLINI AND A COUP

The dice would be too heavily loaded against Italy for her to attempt anything in the nature of a dramatic throw. France would be definitely hostile to any Italian effort to establish a dominating naval position in the Western Mediterranean, and Great Britain is scarcely likely to look on with equanimity at any such move. In this foregone conclusion doubtless lies the best assurance against any such coup as Signor Mussolini has pictured to enthusiastic audiences in past times. But I think the Italian point of view merits some sympathetic consideration, too. Probably it would have received more had it been put in less intransigent terms in a better-ordered world, such as existed before dictatorship became rampant. There would have been little difficulty in framing compacts which would guarantee to Italy freedom of the Mediterranean for all legitimate purposes. But nowadays, with so much violent international political opposition in Europe, nobody is prepared to help anybody else, and the consequence is that Italy has to see to her own security in the Mediterranean—a proposition which her new imperialistic doctrine does not tend to render any easier.

STABILIZING INFLUENCE

It is all very interesting, and very difficult. The great expansion of British power which is now beginning to exercise a very stabilizing influence but it

JUDGE ON RIGHTS OF NEWSPAPERS

Banned Book Action

A libel action brought by Mr. Patrick Mulloy, a Civil Servant employed in London by the Irish Free State Government, against London Express Newspaper Ltd., was in Mr. Justice Hawke's list in the King's Bench Division for legal arguments on a jury's findings.

Mr. Mulloy, whose novel, "Jack's Green"—dealing with incidents in the Irish civil war—was banned in the Irish Free State, claimed damages in respect of an article in the Irish edition of the "Daily Express" on June 11 last year.

A jury had found that the article was defamatory of Mr. Mulloy; that Professor Magennis, a member of the Irish Board of Censors, and Mr. Mulloy spoke to "Daily Express" reporters, the words attributed to them in the article; that the article was fair criticism of Mr. Mulloy's book; and that the words complained of were not true.

The jury had assessed the damages, if any, at £500.

Mr. Comyns Carr, K.C., for Mr. Mulloy, submitted that the jury's findings on fair comment could not stand because there was no material on which it could be found that the comment was fair.

Mr. Justice Hawke, who gave judgment for the defendants, with costs, said that at the trial there was a question whether Professor Magennis said certain things, but it was never suggested that, if he did say them, he did not believe them.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Justice Hawke, "newspapers are not confined merely to reporting criticisms by their own servants. If they report the opinions of other people, and can show that the opinions of those persons were perfectly honest and were fair, the newspaper is protected by the plea of fair comment just as much as if their own servant had advanced the criticism."

"I think a newspaper is protected by the plea of fair comment although the person whose comment they published—always assuming that it is a matter of public interest—was not their own servant."

'DECAY OF DRAWING'

"Ten thousand years ago, primitive men were doing drawings on the walls of limestone caves better than many artists do to-day," said Mr. Lionel Lindsay, recently when opening an exhibition in the Macquarie Gallery, Australia, of reproductions of the works of Durer, and other famous masters.

Mr. Lindsay deplored what he described as the "decay" of drawing in modern art, and declared that the modernist school had brought nothing to art but distortion.

Mr. Lindsay, who was introduced by Mr. Lloyd Rees as the most famous black and white artist in Australia, said that many modern, so-called artists simply would not take the trouble to learn the fundamentals of their work.

"Often they distorted because they could not draw. Art did not progress like science, because, although one scientist could carry on work where his predecessor left off, every new artist had to learn afresh for himself."

Mr. Lindsay said that Paris, once the greatest art city of the world, was no longer. In 1929, before the depression, there were 38,000 artists in Paris, and most of them could not draw. The depression had done some good in sweeping many of them away. The foremost European country in painting was now England.

will take a long while yet to reach really dominating proportions, and the trouble in Spain may assume an ugly turn at any time. The Rome-Berlin axis has imported quite a new element into Mediterranean naval politics. German sea power is again expanding as fast as the shipyards can turn out new tonnage. It will be a considerable time yet before the German fleet can regain the first-class category in the matter of strength, but the moral effect of such a backing is bound to be very strong in Italy's sea politics.

Our own concern in the situation remains traditional. We merely want to preserve the free right of way for all shipping—including Italian—through the Middle Sea.

Fashion PRE-VIEW

Many Millinery Revivals Round The Shops

This season proves that the debutante and her mother can wear the most exclusive and romantic of models. They reflect all the charms from 1837 brought into unison with the fashion points of 1937.

There are at least two opposing factors in millinery that mark this year's Ascot. Hats are either very tiny or exceptionally large. All are poised lightly on the head in all kinds of novel ways. Dainty ethereal cart-wheels, with sprays of flowers and feather fantasies reposing on their brims of tulle and lace, are traditionally "Ascot."

The latest charm of the new brims of gigantic proportions is to place single flowers of silk and velvet or feathery tips between two layers of tulle. Stalks of flowers or stems of ostrich are bordered with coarse stitching, which shows the flower or feather to advantage and makes them more secure.

LAYERS OF TULLE

A lily-green crinoline of very fragile but large dimensions has big purple and pink clematis encased within two layers of palest flesh tulle. The shape then sweeps on in Gainsborough arrogance to one side. Field flowers, reposing between the double tulle brim of black were chosen for an Ascot creation of black crepe embroidered with red daisies.

The only medium-sized hats for Ascot seem to favour the coolie crown. Molyneux has a model in apricot. Ball-Buntal, the flat round crown being composed entirely of a ring of apricot ostrich fronds and a feather tip.

For bonnets and caps chiffon is the ideal and leading summer fabric. Novel tiny pork-pie shapes, bonnets and forage caps, made entirely of coloured chiffons, are wonderful. They are tucked, plissé, gauged and stitched in such ways as to turn the original material into models of outstanding beauty.

Chiffon strings add an amusing 1830 touch to the latest Paris bonnet. A Reboux chiffon bonnet in a shade of sea-green has strings in the same tone which can either tie under the chin or fall gracefully down the back. These chiffon strings are original and fascinating. Suzy Talbot shows a fancy crinoline bonnet with a whole crown composed of knots in a black ribbon velvet.

Other minute hats are made mostly in small pill-box shape. Some are entirely of osprey and pastel-ostrich fronds. A favourite, which will be to the fore at Ascot, is a forage cap of "stuck-on" ostrich in tones of shaded peach and deeper apricot. There is a cache-peigne of this feather-like ribbon-work, and the rings of feather and plume of the crown mingle with the curls.

The "skull-cap" continues in popularity for the young. In flower, feather or chiffon, these caps are worn at the back of the head, with a long floating veil.

CHIFFON PARASOL

Delightful for Ascot was a parasol of printed pastel tones in chiffon and a hat to match, with a rouleaux of chiffon and two pom-poms in the same lovely shade of hyacinth-blue. This idea was also carried out in organdie, and struck an Edwardian air with its wonderful medley of colouring. It seems incredible that each of the two small chiffon pom-poms represented a yard of fabric.

The all-white vogue has a big following. The smaller shapes in white are specially attractive, in all kinds of new fabrics and straws, with cotton flowers and unusual wings.

Leghorns will complete some organdie ensembles at the summer pageant, but they are not so interesting as the newer fabric straws and fine tulle and chiffons. Here and there, the old-world Leghorns with sweeping lines will appear with organdie, frocks, the hats adorned with floral sprays or drooping feathers.

Belts—four inches deep—of furnishing braid in bright colours, patent leather trimmed with metal coloured wooden beads, or felt applique decorations.

Voyageur Headgear

A classic felt hat such as this one finds a welcome place in the wardrobe of almost every woman. Maxine Jennings, RKO Radio actress, poses in this one called the Voyageur by its creator. It is in best grey, with a jaunty feather tucked in one side of the grosgrain band. It also boasts an interesting creased low crown, a feature very much in fashion's favor this spring. Miss Jennings will be seen in a principal role of "You Can't Buy Luck," featuring Onslow Stevens and Helen Mack.

PARIS FASHIONS

Trimmings of velvet already give a midsummer appearance to dresses. A black velvet yoke pointed in front and at the back draws attention to a pale yellow dress of silk crepe. Velvet belts in black, deep violet, and wine-red trim the waists of dresses in white and pale colours. Lace is worn in the afternoon as well as in the evening. A suitable dress for the afternoon is in coarse white lace. It has a basque and a belt of dark mauve velvet. The design of the lace is cut to give the skirt of this dress an uneven hem. Dresses of white embroidered muslin are also correct for the afternoon. Some of these white dresses and the jackets with them are very simply tailored on straight lines.

The slender dresses designed by Schiaparelli for the Exhibition season are now being worn. At a recent theatre performance a violet crepe dress went with a jacket of rose-pink brocade. Navy-blue jersey and black organdie make dresses of two different types. White crepe evening dresses are figured with bright bouquets of flowers. A dress of this kind has a belt of orange ribbon.

Organdie Is Very Fashionable

In many instances the latest summer gowns show a light, bright, contrasting theme, such as pink for violet, blue or light blue for black, while single colours in off-white are combined with embroidered jackets of white organdie to tone. Linen may replace silken fabrics, but elaborate trimmings in decorative touches remain.

Other ground and instep length gowns of slender cut have slightly fuller hemlines and simple, high-necked corseages with flat scarf movements placed to rise from halfway up and cross fichu-wise at high necklines.

Some floral patterns show broad effects in bright colours, while others are pastel tinted with green foliage intertwined. Short sleeves are usual, though leg o' mutton styles are shaped to beneath elbows and vie with semi-capes with perfectly straight hems. Tailored belts of the printed fabric complete these short-waist dresses with little turn-down collars.

In competition with straight hems, the fuller skirts show pointed effects tipping the ground from high ankle-level openings. Hoops make full ground-length skirts look extra wide. These are for youth and may be of circular cut or straight and gathered to waist-lines in the Victorian manner. Dainty corseages have puff sleeves and décolletages showing lower squared backs from fronts. One of the circular skirted trend is charming in semi-glossed apple-green chints patterned with a

LANE CRAWFORD'S

Some new and lovely stockings are being shown at Lane Crawford's this week, and two famous names in the hosiery line are known to most of us by repute even if we have not yet indulged in the luxury of wearing them.

These names are Aristoc, and Phantom and they need no introduction to women of discrimination. Both are exquisite wear and are made in every smart shade. With sheer, or lace toes they look marvellous for wear with sandals.

MAYO'S

Lots of fascinating straws are displayed this week at Mayo's, where hats are made to suit every type. Shopping at Mayo's is too easy, you simply choose the straw to match that difficult gown! Having selected your straw you then choose the style of hat you want, and in a very short time you will find yourself trying on "the perfect hat," something in which you know you look your best.

RIVELLE'S

Some new frocks have just arrived at Rivelle's and have been included in the special sale, which continues for a few more days in consequence. All Rivelle dresses are well cut and have a marvellous "line" so take this chance to secure a bargain.

When Betty Grable swims, she insists on a suit that is brief, comfortable and colorful. Here the RKO Radio player models one of silk, luster in sea green and white. The marlin suit is modeled to the figure by exceptionally clever cutting.

White lace design and black bows which link up with a black velvet corseage.

White for shorter skirted garden party styles makes two-piece ensembles of soft silk mousseline, the frocks with corseages fitting the figure through shirring. These are slender beneath full-length circular capes of the mousseline.

Other white outfits which are being ordered in Paris for wear during Ascot are tailored suits of chalk-white crepe or albino. White silk muslin blouses, with dark coloured lace or organdie jabots, complete them. Black is interesting when used in contrast. Necklace loops of three tiers of silver metal coils on the corseage of a jersey frock, while a black suit has a mass of embossed pink organdie roses on each lapel.

A jumper, gloves, and a posy of royal crimson, worn with a French grey suit.

Shoes, Stockings, And Gloves

Now that skirts are shorter, greater attention is directed to stockings and shoes, which harmonize in colour and style with suits and dresses. With cornelian red shoes go fine stockings of a coppery hue. These look well with suits in dark brown, navy, and dark green. All black costumes must have black shoes, and there is a new shade of skin-tan for the stockings. Black shoes also go with beige, grey, and purple-blue costumes, the stockings being in beige with a slightly greyish tinge. Grey, beige, brown, and medium blue may be worn with dark brown shoes and stockings.

For the soft dressmaker-suit there are slim, high-heeled shoes of fabric or suede cut very high over the instep. Other afternoon styles are of sandal design with much cut-out detail, or pumps of kid or suede with contrasting insets of patent leather. Evening sandals are reduced to a minimum. They consist of the narrowest of bands across the front and a tiny back strap above the heel. They are in satin, kid, or lamé, in bright red, royal blue, green, and yellow. These brilliant colours are either in strong contrast to the evening dress or repeat one of its colour notes. The continued popularity of sandals and open-toed shoes has brought with it a stocking with a lace mesh toe and heel. There are also fine, all-mesh stockings, and some with lace insets on the instep or in the place of clocks. For evening wear these stockings look best in pale peach and all the natural skin colours. For formal evening wear long gloves of fine suede repeat the pastel colouring of the stockings. Others in fine white kid are embroidered on the back in a design of gold bows or scalloping.

For afternoon wear and the cocktail hour there are fine suede and kid gloves in all colours, with elaborate stitchings, ruchings, and pleatings on the back and at the wrists. Some have designs of tiny flowers in fine Beaulieu stitching. Tailored suits are worn with neat tailored gauntlet gloves trimmed with the simplest stitching of silk, cord, or leather thongs. In bright colours they may repeat the colour note of belt, handbag, or scarf.

Antelope and suede make softer handbags sometimes of circular shape with maroon jewelled fastening, or simply tailored with large metal initials. Lamé in plain gold and in colours makes evening bags. They are trimmed with stitching, shirring, contrasting stripes or appliques of leather or fabric. Sensible roomy bags are in printed brocades, the design of the print being picked out all over in beads.

HOT WEATHER GLOVES

Meshed gloves are not specially cool or in any way smart. Far more chic is to carry the correct pale suede gloves than to wear a sort of fish-net affair not flattering on the hand.

When You Buy A Hat...

If your face is small and your features fine, choose either a brimless hat, or one with a small brim. Wide brims and heavy trimmings will dwarf your personality.

Pass by all round or pointed crowns if your face is full or moon shaped. A square crowned hat will help to square the face circle.

If your nose is too prominent, select a hat whose brim extends beyond it both in the front and in the back. This will help to reduce nose prominence.

A very short girl will look taller if her hat brim has an upward sweep on one side.

A very tall girl can minimise her height if she chooses hats with quite flat crowns, horizontal trimmings, and sizeable brims always turned down, never up.

FASHION SNAPSHOTS

Sprays and trails of delicate leaves on the shoulders or at the waistline of an evening frock instead of flowers.

Juliet caps of gold braid in a trellis pattern, with tiny flower posies here and there where the threads cross.

The plain glove is now the rage, even those very exquisitely embroidered decorative examples are not so really smart. There has been such a plethora of fancy gloves that one who chooses simplicity, but it is not cheap.

WHEN YOU'RE IN LOVE

Can you picture Grace Moore singing "Minnie the Moocher," with appropriate gestures? You don't believe it? Well, trot right over to the King's Theatre where her new Columbia picture, "When You're In Love," is showing to-day and take a look. Take a few looks—it's one of the best films you've ever seen!

To call it gay, gorgeous, giddy, and generous with Miss Moore's lovely voice would be insufficient. It is one of the happiest affairs that Hollywood has ever produced, giving you a Grace Moore, whom you'll fall in love with all over again.

THE FIRST BABY

The first kiss was thrilling, the first year was fun, but the first baby really started things bubbling!

Telling a robustly real story about a couple of sweet youngsters and their adventures in parenthood, the new Fox picture, "The First Baby," is showing at the Alhambra Theatre to-day.

Featuring Johnny Downs, who was recently seen in Irvin Cobb's "Everybody's Old Man," and Shirley Deane in the leading roles, the new picture is a true-to-life love story about young newlyweds, whose smallest worry is a baby boy, and whose biggest is "in-law" trouble.

Married on Johnny's five-dollar raise, they accede to the nagging of Marjorie Gateson, the girl's mother, and set up home with her. After the baby arrives, conditions become intolerable, so with the aid of Taylor Holmes, the girl's father, Johnny sets up a separate apartment.

THE MAN WHO FOUND HIMSELF

How a girl is responsible for the successful spiritual return of a derelict physician and surgeon is the poignant theme of "The Man Who Found Himself," which is showing at the Alhambra Theatre to-day.

Invested with principal roles are John Beal, John Fontaine, and Philip Huston. Beal's performance is said to be in keeping with his sincere characterizations, and for a screen newcomer, the blonde and comely Miss Fontaine has been cheered like a veteran player.

KING GEORGE VI INVESTED

London, June 30.

The Albert Hall presented a memorable scene, when, at a special meeting of the Grand Lodge of the United Grand Lodge of England, King George VI was invested as Past Grand Master.

It was the first time that any King of England had attended a Masonic meeting after this accession.

Nine thousand Freemasons from all parts of the Empire gave the King an enthusiastic welcome.

FUTURE SCREEN TALENT

(BY EDWARD LAWRENCE)

Many old-time actors, mourning the passing of the stock company, vaudeville and the decadence of the theatre, predict that the motion picture will suffer in years to come from a lack of talent as these training schools decrease.

"Not so," said Jack Conway, speaking from twenty-three years of experience, both as an actor and director.

"There are more talented young men and women coming to Hollywood today than ever before. There are no limits to talent. It can be found, anywhere, in the country, in the city, wearing any kind of clothes, doing any kind of work, having any degree of education."

Conway believes the quality that makes movie stars is of more importance than training.

"Hollywood is equipped to train new actors and actresses," Conway declared. "It is of greater importance to find people having that 'certain something,' call it personality, charm, glamour, or whatever you will."

It is Conway's advice not to sell the new generation short.

"Young people of this day," he said, "are more versatile, more intelligent, better equipped for careers than their parents were, and the material from which stars are made will become increasingly plentiful."

To prove his point, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director pointed to Robert Taylor, a star two years after graduating from Pomona College, with "no more theatrical background than amateur dramatics; Eleanor Powell, who rose to stardom in a single picture, Broadway Melody of 1936, and Sonja Henie, with no dramatic training, but a charming personality and the ability to ice skate better than any woman in the world, who did the same.

"All three were unknowns so far as the screen was concerned, just two years ago," said Conway.

Specifically, where do stars come from?

"The picture, Saratoga, is an example," Conway said, referring to his new directorial effort.

"Clark Gable was a country boy, who had stage training, but struggled for several years before becoming a star; Jean Harlow was a city girl, with no stage training, who became a star overnight, and Lionel Barrymore, was the member of a great stage family, who would rather paint than act."

Conway predicts that the next five years will see more budding stars than at any time in the history of the movies.

"Why," smiled Conway, "I have a couple of youngsters, Pat and Mike, who don't want to go to college. They are planning to be movie stars."

OPTORG COMPANY

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS EXTENSION New Agreement With Government

According to the "Times" of June 19, shareholders of Imperial Airways, Limited, formally approved a resolution increasing the capital to £5,000,000 and thereby set the seal of inauguration upon what Sir George Beharrell, who presided in the absence of Sir Eric Geddes, justly described as a "new era in the history of the company." As announced at the meeting last November, this large capital increase—the present share capital amounts to no more than £649,089—is required to enable the company to finance the enormous extension in its activities contemplated by the new agreement entered into with the Government. After giving full details of the latter agreement, which provides, it may be recalled, for the carriage of first-class mails free of surcharge to Empire territories, Sir George Beharrell suggested that the board ought to be allowed a certain discretion in deciding how the requisite capital was to be raised. It was proposed therefore to authorize the creation of a further 4,000,000 shares and to empower the directors to issue such a number of these, either as Preference or Ordinary shares, as might be determined by market and other conditions. He then made the important announcement that the board had decided to invite subscriptions at once for 1,000,000 Ordinary shares.

PROVISION FOR ORDINARY DIVIDENDS

The meeting approved an important proposal touching the division of profits as between the Ordinary shareholders and the Government in its capacity as holder of the Deferred shares. The existing arrangement whereby the Ordinary shareholders are entitled to an appropriation out of profits for the year equal to a dividend of 10 per cent., any surplus remaining thereafter being shared equally with the Deferred shareholder, is to be retained. In view, however, of the fact that it may not always be practicable or desirable to make an immediate distribution to the Ordinary shareholders of the full amount it is now proposed that any balance not immediately distributed shall be placed in a special fund and reserved exclusively for the payment of dividends on the Ordinary shares, as and when the directors think it prudent to distribute the fund. The chairman was careful to explain that the dividends payable from this source would not necessarily be fixed at 10 per cent., but might exceed or fall short of that figure. The proposal would seem, in reality, to establish a dividend equalization fund, and, as the chairman explained, it will start with £150,000 to its credit, for by agreement with the Government this amount is to be earmarked for the benefit of the shareholders out of the company's free reserves.

BISHOP PAYS TRIBUTE

"Thank God For Stanley Baldwin"

The Bishop of Worcester, Dr. A. W. T. Perowne, who some time ago "thanked God for Stanley Baldwin," paid another tribute to the former Prime Minister when addressing the Worcester Diocesan Conference recently.

"Much has happened since we last met as a conference," he said. "Our national life has confronted and satisfactorily overcome a constitutional crisis of first-class magnitude, thanks to the strong Christian consciousness of the people of Great Britain and the Independent Dominions, under the guiding hand of our late Prime Minister."

"When I ventured at the Diocesan Conference some time ago to say that we in Worcester were able, whatever our political colour might be, to thank God for Stanley Baldwin, I had quite a number of protests against bringing politics on to a church platform."

"I venture to think that subsequent events have amply justified my expression of thankfulness to God that we had him at the helm last December."

VON NEURATH'S VISIT "Nothing Fixed Up"

London, June 30. "Nothing has yet been fixed up," declared the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday from Mr. Thomas Henderson (Labour, Tradedon) as to whether it had been decided when the German Foreign Minister, Baron von Neurath, should visit London.

SINGAPORE AIR BASE

London, June 30. It was stated in Commons that the total estimated cost of the Military Air Base at Singapore was four-and-a-half million pounds. The cost incurred up to March 31, was £1,394,000. This had been met by contributions from New Zealand, the Federated Malay States and the Sultan and the State of Johore, amounting to £250,000 and the remainder out of Air Votes. In addition there was a gift of land by the Government of the Straits Settlements.

TORPEDO OR MINE?

London, June 30. Mr. Eden said in the House of Commons that according to such information as was available, it was not possible to establish definitely whether the Spanish merchant ship, Cabopalos, reported sunk by a torpedo, was in fact sunk by a torpedo or mine. He added that he understood that General Franco's forces possessed some submarines.

ANOTHER NEW AIR SERVICE

Stockholm, June 30. A new air line between Stockholm and Moscow was opened yesterday when the first plane arrived from the Soviet. The line will be maintained by an equal number of Swedish and Russian planes. The first machine to cover the route carried a valuable cargo in the form of 168 kilograms of Russian gold destined for London.

SIR JOHN MAFFEY RETIRES

London, June 30. Sir John Maffey retires tomorrow from the office of Permanent Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, which he has held since November 1933. As stated last April when Sir John Maffey's impending retirement was announced, he is succeeded by Sir Arthur Charles Parkinson, an assistant Under-Secretary of State.

SINO-JAPANESE DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

Nanking, June 30. Foreign Minister Wang Chung-hui is continuing his stay here, it is understood, in order to meet the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Shigeru Kawagoe, who is scheduled to arrive from Tokyo on Friday. The Foreign Minister is alleged to have informed the Government to this effect and of his intention of holding a conference with the envoy on July 2.

The authorities are seriously concerned over the strained state of Sino-Japanese relations and are in this respect looking forward to new instructions from the Japanese Government which Ambassador Kwagoe is said to be bringing with him. Many Chinese diplomats are convinced that the reinstatement of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota is certain to cause new developments in Sino-Japanese diplomatic relations.

After conferring with Mr. Kawagoe, Dr. Wang will visit Kuling, the temporary capital, to spend the rest of the summer there and to report the outcome of his conference to the Government.

Chinese circles here meanwhile continue to remain pessimistic over the immediate future of Sino-Japanese relations.

SOVIET BOAT SUNK Situation Settled?

London, June 30. The news that the Japanese and Manchukuo forces have sunk a Soviet armed patrol boat in the Amur River has been received with surprise and concern in London, as earlier dispatches tended to show that the difficult situation, arising from the dispute over ownership of the Sennui Islands had apparently been settled.

MR. T.V. SOONG IN KWANGSI

Canton, June 30. As the result of recent conversations between General Li Tsung-jen, Vice-Commander-in-Chief of the Fifth Route Army of Kwangsi Province and Mr. T. V. Soong, Chairman of the National Economic Council, it is reported that in obedience to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's telegraphic instructions, Mr. T. V. Soong proceeded to Kwelin together with General Li Tsung-jen by aeroplane yesterday. It is reported that Mr. T. V. Soong will study conditions, and after settling the currency problem and completing his investigations, and conferring with General Pei Chung-hsi, Pacification Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief of the Fifth Route Army, he will fly to Loo Shan about July 3 to report to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

It is stated that General Li Tsung-jen will accompany Mr. Soong to Loo Shan to attend the National Salvation Conference, convened by the Generalissimo. Another report states that General Pei Chung-hsi and Civil Governor Wong Kuk-chor will also proceed with Mr. Soong to Loo Shan. The visit of Mr. Soong to Kwelin created an excellent impression. It is believed that Mr. Soong's presence in Kwelin will mean the settlement of many knotty problems.

TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS IN RURAL DISTRICTS

Changchun, June 30. Frantic policies to rehabilitate local finances are contemplated by the Manchukuo Government in an effort to improve conditions in rural districts, still confused as the result of mal-administration. Provincial banks and credit organisations will be formed and the maximum loan permitted to cooperative societies will be more than doubled.

Significance is seen in the fact that the chief of the financial management bureau of the Finance Ministry is now in Tokyo. He is conferring on the projected reforms. Since his installation as Finance Minister, Mr. Han Yun-chin has also been devoting his energy to this scheme. The projected reforms call for the establishment of one banking concern in each province. Charging low interest, it will seek to better depressed local finances and develop local industries. It will also be linked with the Central Bank of Manchou and the Manchou Industrial Bank.

A PASSPORT TO CULTURE

In connection with a recent large sale of Victorian books, a writer in the Times of London recalls a saying of Lord Morley to the effect that the people of Victorian England could be divided into those who kept a Tennyson on their shelves and those who did not.

There is certainly a modicum of truth in the epigram—although a glance at the secondhand book-shops today might lead one to suppose that those who didn't keep him on their shelves had him in their pockets. To display your Tennyson, then, to the stranger within your gates was to offer him a guarantee, recognized by everyone who was anyone, of your cultural integrity. The passage of time has, alas, deprived us of this easily applied cachet; for where is the author now whose name, unsupported, will thus serve as passport for us?

Shakespeare, in solitary grandeur, will hardly help us with the devoted followers of Mr. Bernard Shaw, who has long since put Shakespeare in his place. And even Mr. Shaw, after his effort to guide the Intelligent Woman, is suspect, in some quarters. If we fly the banner of Kipling, there will be those who will mark only its imperial purple, and eye us askance. Mr. H. G. Wells is so delightfully easy to read that the intellectuals might refuse him as a serious criterion.

The rule did not, however, apply with the Victorians, only to Tennyson and culture in a narrow literary sense. To be a gentleman "sans reproche" it was no less essential to keep a retinue of Standard Authors, than it was to keep a well-appointed stable. One cannot seriously regret the passing of such an outlook; and one suspects that the ubiquitous Tennyson often knew the indignity of uncut pages. At present, though we may not, perhaps, muster so many classic names on our shelves, we have not been pressed into collecting our books by any social convention, but have engaged with them more or less voluntarily—and one volunteer is worth three pressed men.

NEW DEVICE FOR FIRE ENGINES

Signal To Clear Roads

The new amber lights which have been fitted to the appliances used by the London Fire Brigade to enable them to have the right of way were demonstrated at the headquarters of the brigade on the Albert Embankment, S.E.

They are fitted centrally on the front of each fire appliance, and flicker so that even in the daytime they cannot fail to attract attention. Hitherto when fire brigade vehicles have been held up by traffic lights they have had to wait until released with other traffic. Now, however, the flickering amber lights will cause the police to open up the way.

The new lights were demonstrated on a motor-car in which officers of the brigade might be travelling to the scene of a fire, a fire escape, and also on a fire pump, and even in the brightness of summer daylight they were easily distinguishable.

The demonstration was held at the new headquarters of the brigade, which are to be opened by the King on July 21. The new buildings, which are not yet completed, are 10 stories high, and made of steel and concrete. Special care has been taken to let

STOWAWAY

An Enchanting Film For Queen's

Associate Producers B. G. de Sylva, Earl Carroll and Harold Wilson have secured a thundering success in their new film "Stowaway," and it will probably go down on the records as the best film ever produced, featuring Shirley Temple.

Being one of those with a strong aversion to the infant prodigy on the screen, and having been reduced to a state of shuddering repulsion by some of the sub-staff given in various previous films I went to "Stowaway" in a sceptical mood, to find myself delighted, enchanted and enthralled by the most charming film seen for years. It has a sparkling and most amusing plot, in which this delicious little morsel of feminine humanity is essential, and at the same time subservient to the story. The result of this is that her every appearance on the screen is a delight. She does not so much appear to act as to "occur" in the film.

Robert Young as the smart young man-about-town who "befriends" her, and Alice Faye as the love-interest are both delightful too and Arthur Treacher has a valet-part after his own heart which he plays in his own inimitable way.

The interest never flags, nor does the humour. The Chinese scenes are remarkably good, and in all the Oriental parts there is only one "slip-up" which is obviously the fault of the caption-man, viz. when the ship with our little stowaway on board approaches Hong Kong an excellent bird's-eye view of Singapore is shown, while on the ship reaching Singapore we get a fleeting but excellent picture of the Peak.

"Stowaway" will please young and old alike for it is a winner, and it adds new laurels to the crown of the winsome little lady Shirley Temple.—Acwo.

£14,958. FOR CHINESE PORCELAIN

Consistently good prices were obtained at the sale of the collection of Chinese porcelain formed by the Dutch collector Mr. W. F. van Hekelom, of Amsterdam, which ended at Sotheby's on June 17, states the "Times." When the hammer fell on the last lot the book recorded the excellent total of £14,958. All the chief London dealers in Oriental porcelain were present, and the bidding was most spirited throughout the sale.

The "famille noire" pieces sold exceptionally well, a set of six cups and saucers going for £640 (Staal), and a dish decorated in the centre with Shou Lao and his familiars, with the six-character mark of Cheng Hua, fetching £580 (Yamanaka).

An outstanding lot among the powder blue items was a pair of Gourd bottles, which sold for £370 (Mortuga). Other K'ang Hsi pieces included a pair of globular vases the white bodies decorated in brilliant enamels, which fetched £540 (De Pinna); a pair of small ginger jars, which were sold for £410 (Partridge); and a pair of "rouleau" vases with rich coral bodies, which fetched £380 (Partridge).

Mr. Mortuga gave £300 for a pair of K'ang Hsi hexagonal brush stands with "ling lung" sides; a biscuit marriage cup of rhinoceros-horn shape, only 4in. high; cost Mr. De Pinna £400; and a pair of large biscuit figures of a man and a woman in green and yellow robes, on trapezoidal perforated bases, fell to Mr. Sparks at £460.

A collection of about 40 bracket and long-case clocks was the feature of a sale which made a total of £5,473 at Christie's recently. It was part of the miscellaneous collection of furniture, china, glass, and art objects formed by the late Dr. Douglas Heath, of Edgbaston. Chief among the bracket clocks was one only 7½in. high, with movement by Thomas Tompion in an ebonized case, which fetched £325 (Gardner); and £180 was given by Mr. Bingham for a William IV long-case in walnut 82½in. high, with a movement by the same maker.

The public see the members of the brigade rehearsing. The main block contains an appliance room with seven "run-outs" so that seven engines can leave simultaneously; a watch room; a breathing apparatus room; workshop; battery room; gymnasium; and canteen. At present some of the machines are still at the old headquarters at Southwark.

VAIN FIGHT TO SAVE BANKER

Planes Drop Serum On Yacht's Deck

By the death of Mr. George F. Baker from peritonitis, on board his 300-foot yacht Viking at Honolulu, America loses one of her most influential bankers and wealthiest men, states the "Daily Telegraph."

His son George, who is now returning to the United States from New Zealand, will inherit a fortune conservatively estimated at $10,000,000.

From the moment that Mr. Baker was suddenly stricken in mid-Pacific while returning from a cruise to the Fiji Islands, every aid known to science and every possible form of emergency assistance were employed to save his life.

The British liner Nazara halted and medical help was transferred; seaplanes flew hundreds of miles to drop urgently needed serum on the deck of the yacht; a coastguard cutter was converted into a hospital ship and hurried from Honolulu to join the Vikings; and Doctors and nurses worked ceaselessly, administering blood transfusions and oxygen treatment. All was in vain, however, and the banker, who was aged 59, died a few hours after his wife arrived at his bedside.

Mrs. Baker, who is more than 50, and had never flown before, arrived after a breathless flight of 5,500 miles from New York to Honolulu, including 2,000 miles across the open sea in a China clipper.

THE KING AND THE BOYS' CAMP AT SOUTHWOLD

The King will most probably visit the holiday camp for public-school and industrial boys at Southwold during the first week in August.

The camp was originated as a result of the King's own suggestion when he was Duke of York. It is run by the Industrial Welfare Society, in whose work the King is still greatly interested. A total of 200 boys from public schools and 200 others from industrial firms mix on terms of equality at the camp.

No date has yet been settled for the royal visit, but it is understood that the King will motor down and spend the day at the camp, returning to London the same night. This will be the first time that a reigning monarch of England has gone to such a camp. News that he will attend will set at rest all fears by working-class boys and boys from public schools that with the Duke of York's accession the famous camp named after him would discontinue.

CHILD INJURED

Two-year-old Lam Mo-ngan was conveyed to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday suffering from head injuries. While she was wandering in the road side near No. 38, Tung Choi Street, a bamboo pole accidentally fell from the third floor of the address and hit her on the head. Her condition was reported to be serious.

CHEQUERS "WAITING LIST"

Mr. Chamberlain has yet to take advantage of those Chequers week-ends with their accompanying generous allowance of £15 a visit. In the not very likely event of the Premier declining to make use of Chequers the Act of 1917 lays down an order of succession. It runs:—

The Chancellor of the Exchequer

The Foreign Secretary

The Colonial Secretary

The United States Ambassador in London

The Minister of Agriculture

The First Lord of the Admiralty

The Secretary for War

The Speaker

The Lord Chief Justice

But the Premier can always take possession again if he gives the trustees three months' notice. To find the American Ambassador among Britain's Cabinet is strange. The provision is probably explained by the fact that Lord Lee, the donor of Chequers, married an American lady.

PHILIPPINE REVIEW

Long-Awaited Appointments Announced

The long-awaited appointments for the judiciary department, including those of judges of first instance, provincial fiscals and judges and attorneys for the newly chartered cities were announced by Malacañan.

The appointments received include four for judges of first instance, seven for provincial fiscals, two for municipal judges and two for city attorneys for the four new cities in the southern provinces. Vicente Varela, 1903 government pensionado who is now a practicing attorney in Iloilo and former Representative Ambrosio Santos of Bulacan have been added to the list of two judges of first instance previously named by President Quezon. Appointments of the latter were announced about a month ago.

Among the seven provincial fiscals appointed are former Representative Mariano Alisangco of La Union who was named fiscal for Albay province and Emilio Mayo, a Manila practicing attorney.

The naming of two more judges of first instance was believed to have covered practically all the vacant first instance positions. This provides a complete staff of judiciary administrators throughout the Islands and hope was expressed that the clamour of some judiciary districts for the assignment of judges will have been satisfied.

Business Showing Improvement

Confidence in the future of business and industry in the Islands is reflected in the increased number of corporations and partnerships registered with the bureau of commerce during May. It is reported from Manila.

Figures released by the bureau show a total of 29 stock corporations with an authorized capital of P14,228,495, a subscribed capital of P6,867,095 and a paid-up capital of P2,995,961 in cash and P248,307 in property were registered during the past month.

This compares with a total of 22 stock corporations registered during the same month last year having an authorized capital of P5,386,000, a subscribed capital of P1,510,911 and a paid-up capital of P591,745 in cash and P219,643 in property.

Fourteen partnerships with an aggregate capital of P1,121,000 were also registered during May as against six for the same month last year. Of the total number of partnerships registered during the past month, 12 were general and two limited.

The majority of corporations organized during the month were mining, a total of nine firms having been registered with the bureau. The total authorized capital of these mining firms amounts to P1,220,000, subscribed capital P255,000 and paid-up capital P70,520. This compares with 5 mining corporations during the same month last year, with an aggregate capital of P4,001,000, a subscribed capital of P989,000 and a paid-up capital of P439,710.

Of the total number of corporations registered during the month, 23 were Filipino owned, six American, two German and one Chinese. The Filipinos maintained the lead in the amount invested in stock corporations.

Special Course Of Instruction

A special course of instruction for cadre commanders from the 128 training centres in the Philippines was given at Cebu, and at Camp Dau, Fort Stotsenburg, Pampanga, from June 21 to June 30. It was announced at P. I. Army headquarters. The officers were instructed on what they will teach the second group of 20,000 young men who will begin military training for a period of five and a half months starting on July 5.

U. S. Army officers are lending full co-operation to the local army and have especially detailed two of their officers to Cebu and to Camp Dau. Lieutenant Colonel Per Ramee was designated commandant of the school in Cebu while Lieutenant Vachel D. Whatley was named commandant at Camp Dau.

As the first group of 20,000 trainees complete their five, and a half months training, army headquarters will instruct all cadre commanders from the Visayas and Mindanao to proceed immediately to Cebu and those in Luzon to Camp Dau for the nine-day instruction.

"Outlaws" By Nature

Once more the "last" of the Moro "outlaws" in the Lake Lanao region of the southern Philippines have been driven into the wilderness by the Philippine constabulary. This is "civilization" with a vengeance, for the chief offence of the outlaws has been to resist the "civilizing" orders of the Filipinos, as they did of their American predecessors. Like the Americans, the Filipinos insist on interfering with the local customs of the Moros—America's only Mahometan wards. They insist that the Moros shall pay taxes, shall send their children to school and shall give up their custom of polygamy. The Moros retort that they get no benefit from the taxes; that they prefer their own schooling system to schools run by Filipinos; that they refuse to give up polygamy, and that under any circumstances they will not bow to Filipino rule.

For years this same quarrel has been in progress. A part of the Moro people have from the first days of the American occupation accepted the new order and adapted themselves to the new ways. But in the interior of the Island of Mindanao, where the jungle has only a few settlements of any importance and where wilderness conditions still prevail and the Moros are remote from Filipinos and white men, all efforts to "civilize" them have met with the same kind of resistance.

There is little reason to believe that as Filipino rule becomes more complete in Mindanao the Moros will be any more reasonable and complacent than they were under the Americans.

It Comes Naturally

There apparently is some surprise in Washington that the Japanese question should be introduced into the discussions of American-Philippine relations. But there is no special surprise in Manila comments the "Manila Bulletin." Here the question is popularly, if not also officially, recognized as being relevant. Not only is it relevant but it also is so vital to the main subject of study that it cannot be avoided in any really comprehensive survey.

The current survey in Washington, the one which in a short time will shift its scene to Manila, appears to be more far-reaching and thorough than any so far conducted on the same general subject. It is notable in its emphasis on the economic aspects of the subject. However, the survey cannot be confined entirely to economics, because economics and politics are so mixed up that they demand joint consideration. The Japanese subject, for instance, is both economic and political, both nationally and internationally political. It is one of the numerous complicated and touchy subjects which force themselves into the survey simply because they belong there.

When Assistant Secretary of State Bayne, as chairman of the survey commission, said that the subjects due to be studied were "not in their ramifications and that they concerned not only the United States and the Philippines but also all nations with interests in the Far East," he evidently foresaw just such a development as that of the injection of the Japanese question. His comment invited what now is developing.

FRANCE GOES "OFF GOLD"

Portion Of Monetary Law Suspended

Paris, July 1.
France is officially "off gold."
The Government's first action after securing the unfettered authority of both Houses was to make the franc follow the example of the pound sterling in 1931 by not pegging it to gold.

Portion of the monetary law of October 1, 1936, which fixed the gold value of the devalued franc between 49 and 43 milligrammes is suspended by decree in which it is added there will be a new gold content.

The franc will be fixed subsequently by decree.
Intense interest marked the commencement of dealings on the foreign exchanges this morning following the official decision to resume dealings.

"Free franc" first official quotation was 119.30 whereafter it fluctuated sharply until the present level of 123.00 which compares with 110.53 on Monday's closing rate.

Well-informed circles are at present not inclined to comment regarding the future, pointing out that while the principles of M. Bonnet's rehabilitation programme are good a great deal depends on their application to Osaka.

The gold buying price has been fixed at 28959 francs per kilo.

In view of such a huge sum the delegates of various countries were surprised by the critical remarks of the French trade union leader, M. Jouhaux, who reprimanded the International Trade Union League for not having sufficiently assisted the Spanish Reds.

SUPERSTITION TO BE UPROOTED

Canton, July 1.
The provincial Police Authorities, who have been watching the activities of the keepers of "joss" houses and shrines for housing the different idols, which are worshipped by the ignorant and superstitious people, and which enable the unscrupulous keepers to cheat and swindle the worshippers, have instructed the City Police to make an inventory for all existing "joss" houses and shrines with a view to their final suppression.

Only by the strict suppression of all such idols, worshipping places will it be possible to uproot the superstitious beliefs of the people.

The Hungarian Parliament has unanimously adopted the Government Bill regulating the election of a Regent and extending the Regent's powers. The Socialists left the hall before the vote was taken.

Instead, in a statement to the press, Tommy Farr's manager, Ted Broadbent, stated that Farr was indignant because the boxing promoter, Kitchell, had offered Farr only £7,500 while Schmeling would get twice as much.

The French Government had the question under urgent consideration and hoped to be able to transmit the proposals this afternoon.

This brings their advance guards and patrols to within three miles of the Santander provincial border.

Wednesday also saw a resumption of rebel aerial activity, suspended owing to bad weather.

Rome, July 1.
An important announcement is made in an article in "Popolo Italia" which it is understood was written by Il Duce and states that Italy will not withdraw her volunteers at present fighting in Spain. The article adds that it is time to say that Britain's non-intervention scheme is a fable which only fools can believe. It also states that during the second six months of 1936 over 30,000 volunteers entered Spain the majority of which were from France.

I hope one day Chinese and German youths will be able to exchange tokens of friendship with one another. I enjoyed my brief visit to the Hitler Youth camp immensely and it has afforded me very fruitful suggestions which will be of benefit to our Chinese youth."

Friendly Relations Between Germany And Hungary

VON BLOMBERG'S VISIT TO BUDAPEST

Berlin, July 1.
The object of the visit which the German War Minister, Field Marshal von Blomberg, is now paying to Budapest, is, according to the "Berliner Volkszeitung" to strengthen the friendly relations between Germany and Hungary whose troops fought shoulder to shoulder during the Great War.

Field Marshal von Blomberg's journey, says the paper, has no connection whatsoever with the fact that the Hungarian nation is still denied the right to rearm by virtue of the military clauses of the Trianon Treaty but the paper continues—this observation cannot obscure the reality that the denial of this elementary right has produced untenable conditions since it is contrary alike to the principles of national honour and international morality. Hence, Field Marshal von Blomberg's visit to Budapest is accompanied by the unanimous wish of the German nation that Hungary may soon acquire her right to independence and equality of treatment.

IRISH FREE STATE POLLING

Dublin, July 1.
The Irish Free State polling today will not only elect a new Government but will give verdict as to the Constitution each elector will be given two voting papers for the purpose. Two hundred and seventy-four candidates, including five women, were at the polling booths which were open from 9 a.m. till 6 p.m. The prevailing opinion is that Mr. Eamon de Valera will be returned to power; should this occur it will follow almost automatically that the draft Constitution will be accepted. Counting of votes will start tomorrow morning. First preference counts are likely to be known in the evening and the final results on Wednesday and Thursday.

SOVIET PURGE CONTINUES

Moscow, July 1.
Hodzhayev, Premier of Uzbekistan, accused for many years in connection with counter-revolutionaries is the latest victim of the Soviet's Central Asian purge which claims to have discovered innumerable spies and wreckers of the Trotskyists. Three premiers of Soviet republics have now been eliminated. A new decree abolishing wreckers of Soviet farming forebushes a purge of the peasantry. The decree states that 25 per cent of corn seed last year was eaten by the peasants. Industrial leaders are also being purged. The famous iron mine at Magnitogorsk is already 500,000 tons behind the years programme. The machine makers were held up through lack of iron and steel.

U.S. WIN RYDER CUP

First Time On Foreign Soil

London, June 30.
The United States to-day accomplished a record achievement when they won the Ryder Cup golf contest on foreign soil. The Americans beat their British rivals at Southport by seven matches to three, two being halved.

Singles were played to-day with the following results.

A. Padgham (Britain) lost to Talph Guldahl 8 and 7.

H. Cotton (Britain) beat Tony Manero 5 and 3.

F. Alliss (Britain) lost to Gene Sarazen one up.

A. J. Lacey (Britain) lost H. Picard 2 and 1.

D. J. Rees (Britain) beat Byron Nelson 3 and 1.

R. Burton (Britain) lost to S. Sneed 5 and 4.

S. L. King (Britain) halved with Denmore Shute.

A. Perry (Britain) lost to Ed. Dudley 2 and 1.

UNCERTAIN APPROACHES

Henry Cotton and Tony Manero were both uncertain in their approach shots, and it was this weakness which cost them three holes each on 15th after a lengthy drive, this allowing Picard to draw level. Lacey made a great effort on the last hole, just failing to hole a chip shot.

STEADY GOLF

Rees played the steadiest golf of the day and was hardly ever out of the fairway. Nelson was almost as good and had some bad luck at the ninth when he was stymied and he knocked in his opponent's ball. Playing the 18th, Nelson took four strokes to reach the green.

S. SNEAD v. R. BURTON

Sneed began and finished strongly, and generally outdrew Burton, by yards. But the American was inclined to take risks. Burton endeavoured to play a safe and accurate game, but the conditions were against him.

A "HOODOO" HOLE

Denmore Shute again discovered that the 18th is his "hoodoo" hole. His failure to sink a putt on the 18th cost America the Ryder Cup in 1933, and to-day it again cost him the match.

He and King were engaged in the fiercest struggle of the day. Shute displayed great form at putting and driving, but King hung on grimly by playing lovely approach shots. The players halved the match on the last hole.

FINE PUTTING

Dudley's putting was his strongest point. Perry was frequently from the line of the green, but he also showed good form at putting, as well as retrieving from poor approaches. Dudley picked up his ball at the 14th after being bunkered.

WIMBLEDON TENNIS

Budge And Von Cramm For Final

London, June 30.
The weather was dull and windy at Wimbledon to-day when 14,000 enthusiasts crammed themselves into the Centre Court to see Donald Budge, red-head favourite for the men's singles title, dispose of his countryman, Frank Parker in four sets.

Parker, although defeated, enjoyed the distinction of taking the first set, the only one Budge has lost during the whole of the singles tournament. Parker easily carried off the initial set, Budge being unsettled, but thereafter the Californian was immeasurably superior and won the fourth set with the loss of but one game. Parker actually led 2-1 and 3-2 in the second set, but he could not withstand the withering attack of his opponent.

BRILLIANT STYLISTS

The second semi-final between von Cramm and Austin brought about a clash of brilliant stylists, but Austin was always fighting to save points. The match lasted two hours, and 20 minutes before Austin succumbed to the handsome German.

After an even first set which went to 14 games, von Cramm applied pressure to win the second at 6-3. Austin went to three-love in the dramatic third set which lasted 28 games, but von Cramm pulled him back and won the next five games in a row. However, the German was not so accurate as usual on the backhand, and Austin, playing severely to this weakness, drew level. Von Cramm went on to lead 7-6, but Austin held on grimly. The Englishman shot his bolt in winning the set at 14-12, for in the fourth set he could only win the fifth game.

JAPANESE SHINES

Jiro Yamagishi and Miss Betty Nuthall continued their triumphant progress in the mixed doubles and entered the quarter-finals by surprisingly beating the "seeded" English pair, F.H.D. Wilde and Miss Mary Whitmarsh by scores of 6-3, 6-4.

Princess and Princess Chichibu and the Japanese Ambassador were present to see the Anglo-Japanese pair play lovely tennis. Yamagishi was devastating, serving aces and storming the net to smash the opposition off the court. Miss Nuthall assisted nobly, by volleying well.

In another fourth round match, Gene Mako of United States and Mile. J. Drejowsky (Poland) beat Karl Schroeder (Sweden) and Miss Jean Saunders (Britain) after a long three set match by 4-6, 8-6, 6-1.

MIXED DOUBLES

Quarter-final mixed doubles matches were also played. Donald Budge and Miss Alice Marble advanced at the expense of C.R.D. Tuckey and Miss M. C. Scriven, winning handsomely 6-2, 6-2. J. Petra and Mme. Mathieu, France, had a neat win over Jean Borotra and Mile. Boegner by 6-1, 8-6.

In the men's doubles quarter-finals, the Czechoslovakian pair, Roderick Menzel and L. Hecht, beat A. Jamain and von Metaksa in straight sets of 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

There was a surprise result in the third round of the women's doubles, Mrs. D. B. Andrus, of America, and Mile. Henrotin, of France, beating the "seeded" couple, Miss Helen Jacobs of America and Mrs. Sperling of Denmark after a fascinating match which went to 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

W. E. Bastard (second row forward): Age, 25; weight, 14 stone; height, 5ft 10in. An excellent flank (breakaway) forward, who plays hard from start to finish. On leaving school, he went farming. TITLE FIGHT IN LONDON

Farr-Schmeling Bout Recognised

London, June 30.
After a three-hour conference the stewards of the British Boxing Board of Control decided to recognise the forthcoming Farr-Schmeling fight in Britain as one in which the heavy-weight championship of the world is at stake. The Board took the attitude that in view of the fact that Schmeling's victory against Joe Louis was won in the course of an elimination series to decide who should fight Braddock for the world title, Schmeling should have had first chance at the championship.

Schmeling was the rightful challenger for Braddock's title, and as Braddock has since been beaten by Louis, it is right that the Schmeling-Farr bout should be for the title.

There are some who hold that Braddock sacrificed his title when he failed to keep his appointment with Schmeling at Madison Square Gardens in June, preferring to fight Louis in Chicago.

FIGHT POSTPONED

Berlin, June 30.
The contest between Max Schmeling and Tommy Farr, recognised by the International Boxing Union as a world championship bout, has been postponed from the original scheduled date on August 9 to a date from August 30 and September 1.

The postponement was announced at Schmeling's wish, the German insisting during recent negotiations that the match take place at the end of August.

The White City Stadium has been definitely selected as the scene of the fight.

G. L. van Reenen (second row forward): Age, 23; weight, 14 stone 10lb; height, 6ft 4in. The tallest forward in the team, and a speedy flank player, exceptionally good in defence. Paul Roos, Springbok captain of 1906, made him a flank man at Stellenbosch University. He has played for Western Province since 1933, and is the fourth member of the Gardens Club in Capetown to be chosen in the team. He had some farming experience, but is now a clerk. He is a good field athlete.

L. C. Strachan (forward): Age, 29; weight, 14 stone 7lb; height, 6ft 12in. A lock or flank forward. He is an excellent line-out player, and handles well, and is always in good condition. In 1923 he played for Transvaal against the All Blacks, and he has been a prominent forward for that province for the last 10 years. He played in two of the four international matches with the Springboks in Great Britain in 1931-1932, but during the Wallabies' tour of South Africa in 1933 he was recovering from a serious illness, and did not play much Rugby. CALLENDER'S CABLE AND CONSTRUCTION COMPANY

DIVIDEND AND BONUS 20 PER CENT

The forty-first ordinary general meeting of Calender's Cable and Construction Company, Ltd., was held on June 16 at the Waldorf Hotel, Aldwych, London, W.C. states the "Glasgow Herald."

Sir J. Fortescue Flannery, Bt., H.M.L., M. Inst. C.E., the chairman of the company, presided.

The Chairman said that it had been his good fortune to present to the shareholders for 28 years the annual report and accounts, but he did not think he had ever had such satisfaction as he felt that day when he was able to submit results showing such a splendid advance on the business of the past year and constituting a record for the company.

IMPORTANT CONTRACTS

During the year the plant in the superintending cable shops had been actively employed, having been called upon to supply cable for 68,000-volt working of both oil-filled and solid impregnated types in the Metropolitan area; in addition to important 33,000-volt contracts in the provinces. They had also commenced work on an important 132,000-volt overhead transmission line in the Midlands for the Central Electricity Board.

They would find distributed in their seats a copy of a paper by two of the engineering staff upon the research department's latest development in 200,000-volt impregnated pressure cable. During the last 12 months there had been evolved two rather interesting features. One was a unit construction bridge made under the Calender-Hamilton patents, suitable for employing in circumstances where it was not necessary to erect a large bridge, and there was also a special form of light semi-portable aeroplane hanger for the Air Ministry, of which seven had been erected in different parts of the country with entire success.

Their Anchor Works at Leigh, where cables insulated with rubber and material other than paper were manufactured, had been exceptionally busy, and their company had been entrusted with a large share of the cables required for the new giant Cunard-White Star liner, the sister ship to R.M.S. Queen Mary.

GROSS PROFITS

The gross profits for the year were £233,540 as compared with £247,515—an increase of approximately 5 per cent.

imately £186,000. The board were able to recommend that the dividend on the Ordinary Stock should be maintained at 15 per cent. for the eighteenth occasion, and that it should be augmented by the payment of a special cash bonus for this year only of a further 5 per cent., leaving £276,000 more at £297,827 to be carried forward. (Applause.)

SIR TOM CALLENDER'S STATEMENT

Sir T. O. Callender, the deputy chairman and managing director, said he would only add to the chairman's statement a few words in regard to the overseas business of the company and its widespread connections all over the world. In India, shortly after the completion of the Uhl River contract, the Government of Madras had placed with the company large overhead contracts which were now in course of execution.

In addition, the progressive Indian State of Travancore had placed a somewhat similar but even more extensive contract for the construction of overhead lines, and over and above their contracting business they had had very important orders from several of the local Indian companies with whom they were closely associated. Their general business in the East had included a substantial amount of steel towers and bridges. Business in Australia had lately improved considerably, and from New Zealand their agents had sent substantial and important orders. The company's shipments to South Africa during the past year had been heavy and increasing, and though business was still difficult to obtain from South America they had secured several satisfactory orders. Considerable business had resulted in Palestine in Burma, and elsewhere, both in connection with oil developments and electrical work, and their business in Egypt and East Africa was also improving most satisfactorily. Considerable orders had gone to Mombasa, and after a period of stoppage the Sudan area was recommencing. Generally speaking, wherever it might be whether in the dependencies or the islands attached to the British Crown, the company was keeping the connections it had made.

The report and accounts were unanimously adopted.

FINANCES OF FRANCE

Announcement In Commons

London, June 30. The monetary measures, announced yesterday by the French Government, were the subject of a question in Commons. Replying, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said he understood that the French Parliament was to-day dealing with the demand of the Chautemps Government for drastic powers to deal with the financial situation but until those powers had been obtained and action taken under them, it was impossible to state any details. He added, "It is generally recognised that the readjustment of the franc in September 1936 was not entirely successful in re-establishing a lasting equilibrium between the economic system of the French and those of the United States and Great Britain such as is the underlying object of the Tripartite Agreement."

REMOVAL OF LIMITS

I understand that measures now contemplated by the French Government which involve the removal of the upper and lower gold limits, now prescribed for the franc, are addressed to adjusting this situation. I have been assured, however, by the French Government that it is not their object to seek any exchange advantage from this adjustment and that they are anxious to continue close co-operation with the governments of the United States and the United Kingdom. This is also the strong desire of the British Government and I am in close touch with the French Minister of Finance and the Secretary of the United Treasury with this object in view."

British Wireless.

NOT ENTIRELY SUCCESSFUL

London, June 30. The French monetary situation was the subject of a statement by Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the House of Commons to-day.

Sir John said it had been generally recognised that the readjustment of the franc last September was not entirely successful in re-establishing the lasting equilibrium aimed at by the tripartite agreement.

Continuing, Sir John said he understood that the French Government was contemplating measures involving the removal of the upper and lower gold limits now prescribed for the French franc. The French Government had assured him, however, that it was not seeking any exchange advantage and that it would continue in close co-operation with the United States and British Governments. "This was also the strong desire of the British Government."

NO DIVISION

London, June 30. The House of Commons gave second reading to the bill providing for the £200,000,000 increase in the Exchange Equalisation Fund to-day without a division.

PHILIPPINE MINING NEWS

Although "organized" recently, Mine Factors, Inc., now has eight mining properties under its management. These properties have been selected from many that had been offered. Their selection has been made in line with the established policy of the company to operate only in districts that are known to be mineralized.

Officials of the company believe that these properties have great probability of turning out to be true prospects. Besides these properties, the company is now negotiating with several other companies to manage and operate their mining holdings on a profit sharing basis in some cases and on a fee basis in others.

Mine Factors has closed a contract with the Santa Monica Goldfields, Inc., for a monthly supervisory engineering service at a satisfactory price or fee. This contract became operative on April 15, 1937. The company is sending a group of its men there to supervise the work which, according to reports received in the city, is progressing satisfactorily.

CUYAPAO GROUP
 The Cuyapao Group containing rich copper deposits, also has been acquired by the company. It is located in Antique. Gaston Bacel, an Italian engineer, who has had considerable experience in copper
